THE GREAT SPRINGFIELD MEETING. From The Illinois State Journal.

A veritable political earthquake passed over this part of the State on yesterday. We have no adequate words to describe what our eyes beheld. Never, we believe, in the history of the country, was there a beger or more magnificent political demonstration than that which yesterday took place here, at the home of the West which at all compares to it. Heretofore, we have been in the habit of refer ing to the Harrison Convertion, which met here in 1840, or to the Tippecapes Mass Meeting, which shortly afterward assemtance Mass Meeting, which shortly afterward assembled at Cincinnati, as large meetings; but henceforth the Lincoln Bally of 1860 will be the standard of reference. For its extent, its numbers, and its display, it makes a new era in the matter of political demonstrations; while by its vastoess and enthusiasm it preves continuityly that the people are heart and strength for Lincoln.

continuity by that the people are heart and strength for Lincoln.

But what shall we say of it? The thousands upon thousands who were here from all the central counties of the Sute know for themselves what it was, but how shall we be able to convey in language even a faint item of the monster affair? The day was most favorable for the demonstration. The sun arose in the midst of a dense fog which was speedily dispelled by a light breeze from the west leaving the weather warm but preasant. The pageant of the day was heralded by the firing of a national salute, but even at that early hour the roads leading to town were already filled with vehicles, and the streets were alive with hurrying crowds. Long before 9 o'clock, one dense mass of human beings liked all the thoroughfares. Streamers, banners, flags, and mottoes were flung to the breeze in all directions, at due city assumed a holiday appearance, the like of which was never before wi nessed. Meanwhils, Col. Wilhars, his staff, and a sistant Marshals, were busily stranging the positions of the various delegations, as they arrived, for the grand procession.

By 10 o'clock the line was formed and the march commenced, but owing to the immense number of vehicles, extending miles and miles in length, and the difficulty of bringing the various delegates into line, the programme laid down for the procession was not strictly indicated. It was, I owever, not only by all odds the largest, but the grandest and most magnificent affair of the kind we have ever seen. In the array of flags, hambers, motto-s, devices, cars, etc., etc., ingenuity could hardly have been taxed further. It would fill the kind we have ever seen. In the array of flags, hanners, notto-s, devices, cars, etc., etc., ingenuity could hardly have been taxed further. It would fill several columns of our paper were we to attempt a description of them. We find it impossible to give even an approximately full list of the numerous delegations which were present. At the point where we noted the procession, they passed, so far as we were able to get them to the following order:

First came an immense Rolling Ball, indicating the conward march of Repu lican principles, and filled with appropriate mottoes, among them the following:

"The Republican ball is in motion." "Lincoln, Hamlin and the whole State Ticket:"

"The people mourn insulted laws
And curse Steve. Douglas as the cause."

We link on to Lincoln—our fathers were for Clay," etc.

These do not begin to embrace all the delegations that were present; but, owing to the impossibility of arraiging them in line, we did not enceed in completing our let. As it was, the procession was nearly eight a like long. Its counter-marching and doubling apon saile slong. It will probably be entirely fair to estimale the number of persons in these trains at an average of 80 to the car. Every one who saw the trains come in its aware that they are filled to repletion, many being compelled to stand in the aisles, and others riding on the roofs of the cars. According to this estimate the 180 cars which came in yesterday added about 14,500 persons to the crowd.

The procession reached the Fair Grounds at about 1 o'clock p. m., and in a very short time thereafter the entire grove was filled—crowded to excess with the vast multisude. How many were present, it is impossible to tell, but by actual count more than 19,000 parsed in at one of the entrances alone, while the fields adjoining were packed and jammed with wagons and other vehicles. And yet, while this immeasse mass of human beings were on the Fair Grounds listening to the speaking, the throng upon the streets was not apparently in the least diminished in numbers.

The meeting was called to order by Col. King, who named the following gentlemen as its officers:

CEARLES L. Wilson, esq., Cook County.

Owing to the impressibility of one speaker making himself heard by the entire crowd, five stands were erected in different parts of the ground.

At the first stand the people were addressed by Judge Trumbull, Senator Doolittle of Wisconsin, the Hon. John Wilson (Commissioner of the United States Land Office under Mr. Fillmore), and by the Hoo. O. H. Browning. Most of these speeches were taken down in short-hand, and we shall, probably, at an early day, lay them before our readers. They were all most admirable.

At the second stand Mr. Case, Republican candidate

At the third stand, the Hon. R. J. Oglesby, of Decatur held an immense crowd for full two hours, and made a most telling speech, bristling with sharp points.

At the fourth stand, Mr. Carr and the Hon. Joseph Gillespie spoke. We heard a part of the latter speech, which was most eloquent, and brought the cheers from the crowd incessantly.

At the fifth stand, where a very large audience was assembled, the speeches were made by Judge Palmer of Macoupin, Mr. Ferree of Lebanon, Mr. Linegar, Republican candidate for Congress in the Ninth District, Henry S. Baker of Alton, and Dr. Dyer of Chicago. Several songs were also sung with fine effect by the Lumbard brothers of Chicago, and a gentleman, whose name has escaped us, from Maine.

While Mr. Wilson was speaking at the first stand, it was announced that Mr. Liucoln had arrived upon the Fair grounds. This was the signal for a display of wild enthusiasm, the like of which was never before wimessed by an Illinois audience. There was a rush from every stand toward his carriage, which was immediately surrounded by his warm admirers, and Mr. Lincoln was forced almost violently from the vehicle, and carried upon the sboulders of the crowd to an imprompth stand, where he was called upon for a speech. The huzzas and cheers which greeted him were continued nearly ten minutes without cessation, the uproar being so great that he could not make hinself heard. When order was partially restored, Mr. Lincoln declined making a speech in the following words:

A hand-omely decorated ear of Springfield young ladies; also one with misees, representing the several States.

A full rigged schooner, with sailors aboard, got up in excellent style, and drawn by six horses, the work of the Springfield Woolen Mill were represented in the procession by an immense wagon containing a power loom, driven by a small steam engine. During the progress of the procession they made several yards of substantial jeans cotch, from which a pair of pantaloons for Mr. Lincolm dever cut and made up. The wagon bore the significant motto, "Protection to Home Industry."

The Christian county delegation followed, consisting of 163 wagons and nearly 1,200 strong. They had numerous flags, banners, etc., and a car in which were represented numerous trades.

The Memo delegation, among other good things, has a flat-boat on wheels, representing Liacola's early structure at New Salem; also a wagon drawn by four horses, representing rail-splitters at work.

limity of which was only equaled by its vast extent.

At about 7 o'clock the various delegations of 'Wide-Awaker.' to the number of more than 2,000, assembled at the Wigwam, and formed in marching order. In a few momente the long procession began to move, and, for more than an hour, it presented the appearance of a vast conflagration. As far as the eye could reach to the north and to the south, to the east and to the west, a seemingly interminable line of flame stretched out its moving length.

Buildings along the route assisted in the display.

We are very sore this gathering has never been eurparsed in the West, it, indeed, in any part of the Union; we are firmly convinced that it never will be. There will be no occasion for exceeding it. While we do not claim that there were people enough here to carry Illinois for the Republican cause, we do claim that the number present, and the spirit displayed, gave us convincing evidence of the ruling of a spirit which will insure us a glorious victory in November.

The market opened at lower prices for nearly all of the leading stocks; and there was not only some disposition to realize, but evidently a stronger movement on the part of the short interest to arrest the rising tide and to turn it, if possible, in a contrary direction. The appearance of another "sensation" editorial in the colmns of The Times, upon stock speculation, prepared the street for the attack which followed, but, under all of these circumstances, the market sustained the shock remarkably well, and, although prices were marked down from 1 to 2 ? cent in some instances, the absorption of cash stock was very large, and the feature on the calls generally was a rallying tendency at the close of each, the first sales generally proving the lowest of the session. The most important decline was in Illinois Central, which had advanced very rapidly for several days. From 864 at the start, the price fell off to 84, at which the stock closed in demand; afterward rallying in private sales to 843. Eric underwent a decline of nearly the same amount, falling to 284, with moderate sales. Hudson River, Reading, Michigan Central, Michigan Southern, Toledo and Chicago, Burlington and Quincy declined about 1 per centeach, with larger transaction but in other stocks the changes were unimportant except in Cumberland, which, contrary to the general direction of the market, took a decided start and went up 21 per cent. For Railway Bonds the market was strong throughout, and in some instances a further decided advance was established. Terre Haute and Alten, 2d mortgage, jumped up 5 per cent.; Michigan Southern, 1st mortgage, 2 per cent.; and the Sinking Funds advanced 1. In State Stocks the business was moderate, with a slight decline in Missouris and about the same advance in Tennessees. Immediately after the Board, the market became firmer, and prices were a shade better than the closing prices of the Board, but this improvement was lost in the irregular dealings at the street corners as the day advanced. There was no Second Board, and, as the operators dispersed, there was not much difficulty in marking down quotations in the guerilla warfare of the street. The eaction established in the day's business is quite in harmony with the views of the conservative bulls of the Board, who, feeling great confidence in the future of the market, prefer to see it move with less fever and excitement, and at a pace less rapid than that which has governed the movements of the past week. The time is close at hard when the railways of the West and their connections with the reaboard will prove whether the calculations in regard to the Autumn business are well-founded or not. The returns thus far, for the first week in August, come in even better than the estimates, and this result before the crop is fairly harvested, indicates that the traffic will fully equal, if not very much exceed, general anticipation. At the close of business in the street the quotations were as follows: Cumberland Coal, 171@171; Pacific Mail, 82@83; New-York Central Railroad, 861@861; Erie Railroad, 281@281; Hudson River Railroad, 57 w 57 1; Harlem Railroad, 19 1 w 191; Harlem Bailroad Preferred, 50 2 501; Reading Railroad, 47 @ 47 1: Michigan Central Railroad, 661 @ 662; Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana Railroad, 221 @ 23; Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana Guaranteed, 48 # 482; Panama Railroad, 124 # 1241; Illinois Central Railroad, 842 # 85; Galena and Chicago Railroad, 791@791; Cleveland and Toledo Railroad, 46@ 461; Chicago and Rock Island Railroad, 83@831; show a small increase over the corresponding month last year. The receipts of the Cincinnati, Hamilton, and Dayton for the same month exceed those of last year by about $5,000. The eastern division of the Obio ard Mississippi will show an increase of about $6,000 over the corresponding month last year. The August business of the Indianapolis and Cincinnati opens with activity, the receipts of the first week being considerably in excess of those of last year. A largely increased business is anticipated the present month by all the roads leading into Cincinnati. At a meeting of the bondholders of the Chicago and North-Western Railroad Company, held at No. 12 Wall street, on Saturday, it was voted unanimously to authorize the Company to carry out the proposed arrangements for extending the road from Oshkosh, its present terminus, to Appleton, a distance of 23 miles. The entire cost of the extension will not exceed $10,-900 per mile, and the citizens of Appleton contribute a portion of the sum, taking stock in payment. The business from the section of country to be opened by this extension will be an important acquisition for the North-Western Road, sufficient to pay at least three times the interest on the amount expended in its construction. Mr. W. B. Ogden, President of the C. & N. W. made some interesting statements in relation to the business prospects of the line. Wheat in that section of the country would yield in some instances 35 to 40 bushels to the acre, and is of very superior quality. Field hands are now getting $2 50 per day, and even at that labor is scarce enough to render it difficult to harvest the immense crop as rapidly as desired. In order to do the business of the road this Autumn, the company will be obliged to run freight trains by night, loading and unloading by day. The equipment ha been doubled, but even now will scarcely suffice to do the business close at hand. Mr. Ogden pronounced the statement that the road had been carrying freight without profit, to be a sheer fabrication.

The telegram of the subcide of Mr. Chaffers, the manager of the Reyal Bank of Liverpool, created considerable advicty this morning, owing to the absence of any explanation of the cause. As Mr. Chaffers had been an invalid suffering from paralysis of the lower limbs for many years, and was also of a peculiar and excitable temperament, it may be hoped the event will prove solely attributable to sudden mental derangement. The features of banking history during late years, especially in connection with the Liverpool Borough Bank, the fraud of Pullinger, and the failures now witnessed in the leather tade have rendered the public sensitive to any peculiar occurrence that may be reported in relation to such establishments.

The system of banking in Liverpool being distinguished by the largeness of its open credite throws extraordinary responsibility upon each individual manager, and, as the Royal Bank is perhaps more interested than any other joint-stock institution in Liverpool in the stability of cred tin the various produce markets, an authoritative statement that its affairs are in every way sound is necessarily awaited with much interest. One of the directors is expected in London to-morrow, and every requisite assurance may then possibly be obtained. The Bank was established 24 years back, and has a paid up capital of £650.000 and a reserve of £100.00. The shares were formerly of £1000 each, but were afterwards reduced to £500. It has no branches. Formerly a hank of issue, it has since replaced its circulation by Bank of England notes under the usual arrangement with that establishment. The number of shareholders is but 200, and its metropolitan business is conducted by the London Joint Stock Bank.

We have not, as usual, placed the footings to our table, because of the absence of the roturn from the Delaware and Lackawanna Railroad. It will be seen, however, that the tunnage of the past week is again quite heavy. The Reading Railroad and the Schuylkill Kavigation each show a heavy business for the week. There is a good demand for coal and the prospect to the end of the season looks well.

The Cincinnati Commercial of August 8 says:

The Cincinnati Commercial of August 8 says:

"The money market presents almost exactly the same expression it did yesterday. If any changes were made in the character or volume of the discount transactions they were purely accidental and not the result of any modification in the tone or spirit of general business. Some produce operators have inimated to their backers that they will be in the market soon to precure means for prosecuting their business on a pretty liberal scale, but for some time they can be abundantly accommodated without excreaching on the claims of other mercantile laterests. There was nothing done in the Exchange to day which in the least degree changes the general condition or spirit of the market. Some purchases are made at the banks of drafts drawn on provision and flour shipments and a moderate sorting business is kept up on the most accessible banks; but the supply is so ilberal that no extra exertion is made to increase or even maintain it.

APPOINTMENT OF WEIGHERS OF HAY, CONSTITUTIONAL?

The Mayor, &c., agt Benedict.

The defendant was arrested for an alleged violation of an ordinance of the Common Council, passed the last week in July, in relation to weighing hay. The ordinance provides for the appointment of weighers, who are to receive a license from the Mayor, and imposes a penalty upon any one weighing hay without such license. The counsel for defendant admitted that his client had weighed hay since the passage of the ordinance, and catter ded that he had a right to do so. He asked for a dismissal of the complaint, on the ground that the ordinance, and the act of the Legislature on which the same was based, are in direct conflict with the provisions of Sec. 8, Art. 5, of the Constitution of the State. After hearing the Corporation Attorney in reply, the Justice dismissed the complaint.

We are informed the matter will be taken to the Supreme Court.

COURT OF SPECIAL SESSIONS.—Are. II.

CONVICTION FOR RESISTING DISTRESS FOR NON-PAYMENT OF MILLITARY COMMUTATION TAX.

The People agt, Joseph Schirlinger and Gottlieb Mayer.

The complaint in the case was for an assault upon and resisting the military Marshal when removing goods, after levy, under a warrant divi issued by the Court of Appeals of the lith Regiment. The principal point of defense raised was, that subsequent to the issue of the warrant and levy, the officer who held the Court of Appeals had remitted the fine, and hence the Marshal had no further power under the warrant. The comment for the people urged that by sections 40 and 41, Milita laws of 1855, the officer holding the Court of Appeals had no power to remit the fine or costs, after having issued his warrant. As sec. 40 declares that "the decision, after he shall have considered and decided on the same, shall be fineal, and that afterward &c., the warrant shall issue, but that, admitting the power of the officer to remit the fine only, it will still leave the warrant and only so much could be credited on the warrant as was remitted, leaving the balance of the warrant is for the fines and the costs, and only so much could be credited on the warrant as was remitted, leaving the balance of the warrant is full force; that the remission of a part of a judgment after execution in a civil case, by stipulation or order, is a moster of common occurrence, when the balance only is liable to be collected; that such is the case with these warrants and that the Masshal has an undoubted right to remove sufficient goods to cover costs. Both parties were found guilty, at dined.

DID NOT COMMIT SUICIDE.—The report that a man named Samuel W. Ellis was found suspended by the neck from a tree near Sattersvile, on Friday last, proved to be untrue. Ellis started the rumor himself, by sending a note to a man in Hobs ken (the battender at Van Doren's), signed Beach, studing that the body of a man was found in the woods and that the name of "S. W. Ellis" was marked in India ink on one of his arms. On Friday, Mr. J. Treadwell of Hudson City, for whom Ellis had formerly worked, ordered a mahogany coffin of Mr. Speer undertaker in Jersey City, and directed that carriages should be in readiness at 4 a. m., on Saturday, for the purpose of giving the supposed deceased a decent burial. Sometime in the evening, the fact became known that Ellis was still alive, and a messenger was at once diep tabed to Inform the undertaker that his coffin and carriage could be lispensed with. Mr. Speer had just completed the trimming of the coffin, and was about retiring to set an early start for the burial. On Saturday, Ellis was about Hole ken, and pretended that until that morning he had no recollection of anything for several days previous.
